

WILL INSPECT NEW OMAHA VIEW SCHOOL

Members of the board of education, architects, contractors, attorneys and others interested, will go to the new Omaha View school Friday at 10 a. m. to give it a thorough inspection. The contractors have practically finished their work, but there is yet some building of walks and other outside work that cannot be done at this season, to be completed, and the interior is to be finished.

This is the most modern school in the city, a sixteen-room structure with provision for a manual training and domestic science departments, and is located at Thirtieth and Blaney streets.
