She Remembers

Dear Marie: I would gladly tell about Omaha View School.

My daddy was a janitor there in 1869.

Mr. Pearce was superintendent, Miss Arnold was the music teacher and Miss Hitt was the art instructor. We had a writing instructor, too, and copy books with a lot of scroll work in them.

I still remember a song Miss Arnold sang for us—it went like this:

“Hark the Alpine hunter’s horn, La Lee O,
Wakes the echo at the dawn, La Lee Oh O.”

I am now a mother, grandmother and great-grandmother. Those were long years ago but my memory is fresh when I remember those good old school days. And I sure like to tell the children about them.

Mrs. Alice.
